

This is our preamble:

Friends After Diagnosis meetings are a place of refuge for women with cancer and others with breast cancer. To preserve the safe space that our meetings provide, we remember that each one of us is on a journey all our own, and we honor the decisions of others as being exactly right for them. We also afford all of our Friends the opportunity to finish the thoughts that they choose to share. This mutual respect is central to the support and strength that Friends meetings are meant to provide.

Finally, please silence your cell phone.
